About the Forest

At over 6.3 million acres, the Humboldt-Toiyabe National Forest is the largest National Forest in the contiguous United States. The Forest spans the state of Nevada, and includes one million acres of land in eastern California, along the eastern Sierra Front. The Forest consists of four distinct geographic areas: the Sierra Nevada, Central Nevada, Northeastern Nevada, and the Spring Mountains (Las Vegas).

About the Bridgeport Ranger District (Duty Station)

The Bridgeport Ranger District is located on the west side of the H-T; flanked on the west by the dramatic Sierra Nevada and falling away eastward to the Great Basin Desert. Vegetation ranges from high alpine plant communities to salt desert flats. The Bridgeport District encompasses 1.2 million acres and spans 5 mountain ranges. Two-thirds of the district is in Nevada, one-third is in California. Recreation use is high as the District borders Yosemite National Park and several wilderness areas. Summer activities include hiking, camping, fishing, and OHV travel; winter activities include backcountry snowmobiling, and skiing. This District has a Congressionally Designated Winter Recreation Area located in the Sonora Pass in California allowing snowmobiling in a wilderness -like setting in the Sonora Pass vicinity. This is extreme snowmobiling, deep snow, big bowls and steep mountainous terrain - with only one marginally groomed trail providing access.

The District has a robust program of work that covers range, fire and fuels, recreation, wildlife, fisheries, watershed, noxious weeds, minerals and special uses. There are about 30 permanent employees and the District typically hires additional seasonal employees. The District is also home to the US Marine Corps Mountain Warfare Training Center.
